DESCRIBE THE PRESENT AND ORIGINAL (IF KNOWN) PHYSICAL APPEARANCE

This two story frame house, formerly the Ames Methodist Parsonage, is at 216 Baltimore Pike in the Town of Bel Air, Harford County, Maryland. It was moved around 1940 from a position much nearer the Church. It was then a 2 bay building (the east 2 bays of the present building) with a front and east side porch. The western bay was added after the move.

The gable roof has an L-shape with the bar of the L at the east. The gable over the eastern two bays has a round arched ventilator in it. The windows are 2/2 double-hung sash except for those in the first story front which are 2/4. The entrance is in the east front of the western extension. A rolled tin roofed porch shades the first story of the front (south) elevation. It is carried on doric columns and has a plain balustrade with wrought iron handrails up the steps. A small shed-roofed back porch carried on plain square posts is on the north elevation.

STATEMENT OF SIGNIFICANCE

The house at 216 Baltimore Pike was formerly the Ames Methodist Church Parsonage. When the Methodist Church substituted a housing allowance for their ministers, the parsonage was rented out. It was moved c. 1940 from its position right next to the church. At that time it was a two bay house with a front and east side porch. The western bay has been added.

The parsonage was built shortly after the church was built in 1886, probably by 1890. It appears on the 1904 Sanborn Map and appears in its previous position in the 1930 map.

The church and parsonage were built on a lot first rented and then purchased in 1886 from William F. Hays and George A. Hays for $600 (55/432). This lot, like much Bel Air real estate, had been the property of merchant, Thomas Hays.
